 - (e) the Ministry of Justice and other departments of the Government of the United Kingdom,
 - (f) public office-holders or statutory and non-statutory bodies including in particular the Registrars of the Guernsey Register of Companies and the Alderney Register of Companies and the Douzaines and Constables of the Parishes of Guernsey,
 - (g) representatives of the Crown Estate,
 - (h) persons providing the personal data to HMRG in order to request, assist or facilitate HMRG to discharge their functions, and
 - (i) other organisations and individuals seeking the advice or services of HMRG.
8. If necessary, your personal data may be transferred to recipients in an EU Member State, including the United Kingdom.
9. In addition, it may be necessary for HMRG to transfer your personal data to a country for which a European Commission adequacy decision³ is in force. At the time this notice was issued these are: Andorra, Argentina, Canada (limited to commercial organisations), Faroe Islands, Israel, the Isle of Man, the Bailiwick of Jersey, New Zealand, Switzerland, Uruguay and the United States (limited to the Privacy Shield framework).
10. It may also be necessary for HMRG to transfer your personal data to recipients in other countries. In this case, HMRG will ensure that there are appropriate or suitable safeguards applying to the transfer.
11. Your personal data will be stored for a period of time determined or calculated in accordance with the Retention Policy which will be published on this website in the near future.
12. You have the data subject rights set out in sections 14 to 24 of the Data Protection (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2017, summarised below:

³ See section 111(1) of the Data Protection (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2017.

a. Right of access

A data subject has the right to be advised as to whether a controller is processing personal data relating to them and, if so, that individual is entitled to one free copy of their personal data (with further copies available at a fee prescribed by the controller). This is known as a Subject Access Request (SAR). Upon receipt of a SAR, the controller has a period of one month to adhere to the request (an extension of two further months can be sought by the controller depending upon the complexity and number of requests submitted by the data subject).

b. Right to data portability

A data subject has the right to data portability, this means that an individual is able to arrange for the transfer of their personal data from one controller to another without hindrance from the first controller. This right can only be utilized where the processing is based on consent or for the performance of a contract. This right cannot be used for processing by a public authority.

Where a data subject invokes the right to data portability, the data subject has the right to be given their personal data in a structure, commonly used and machine-readable format suitable for transmission from one controller to another. Upon the request of a data subject, the controller must transmit their personal data directly to another controller unless it is technically unfeasible to do so.

c. Exception to right of portability or access involving disclosure of another individual's personal data

A controller is not obliged to comply with a data subject's request under the right of access or right to data portability where the controller cannot comply with the request without disclosing information relating to another individual who is identified or identifiable from that information.

d. Right to object to processing

A data subject has the right to object to a controller's activities relating to the processing of personal data for direct marketing purposes, on grounds of public interest and for historical or scientific purposes.

e. Right to rectification

A data subject has the right to require a controller to complete any incomplete personal data and to rectify or change any inaccurate personal data.

f. Right to erasure

A data subject has the right to submit a written request to a controller regarding the erasure of the data subject's personal data in certain circumstances. These include where:

- The personal data is no longer required in relation to its original purpose for collection by the controller;
- The lawfulness of processing is based on consent and the data subject has withdrawn their consent;
- The data subject objects to the processing and the controller is required to cease the processing activity;
- The personal data has been unlawfully processed;
- The personal data must be erased in order to comply with any duty imposed by law; or
- The personal data was collected in the context of an offer from an information society service directly to a child under 13 years of age.

g. Right to restriction of processing

A data subject has the right to request, in writing, the restriction of processing activities which relate to the data subject's personal data. This right can be exercised where:

- The accuracy or completeness of the personal data is disputed by the data subject who wishes to obtain restriction of processing for a period in order for the controller to verify the accuracy or completeness;
- The processing is unlawful but the data subject wishes to obtain restriction of processing as opposed to erasure;
- The controller no longer requires the personal data, however the data subject requires the personal data in connection with any legal proceedings; or
- The data subject has objected to processing but the controller has not ceased processing operations pending determination as to whether public interest outweighs the significant interests of the data subject.

h. Right to be notified of rectification, erasure and restrictions

Where any rectification, erasure or restriction of personal data has been carried out, the data subject has a right to ensure that the controller notifies any other person to which the personal data has been disclosed about the rectification, erasure or restriction of processing. The controller must also notify the data subject of the identity and contact details of the other person if the data subject requests this information.

i. Right not to be subject to decisions based on automated processing

A data subject has the right not to be subjected to automated decision making without human intervention.

13. However, some personal data processed by or on behalf of HMRG in the discharge of their functions may be exempt from these data subject rights and corresponding controller's duties. Other exemptions and exceptions may apply. As a result, you may not be able to obtain a copy of your personal data or exercise other data subject rights in relation to your personal data.
